

Realize the Benefits of a Proactive and Optimized Staffing Program

With the constantly changing technology landscape, having the right skill sets in-house can be challenging to maintain and also may not be cost effective. Creating a strategy that takes advantage of hybrid team models that incorporate contracted team members with proven experience and skill sets, with in-house teams that can also learn from external professionals, can be an effective approach.

Microexcel's staffing division offers strategic staffing services that take a different approach than others in the industry. As an ISO certified company with more than 15 years in the industry, Microexcel has mature processes to recruit, match, motivate, and retain our team members, and ensure that our customers are always receiving the best service.

The flexibility of our delivery models, including on-site, off-site, off-shore, and blended teams, provide unique benefits and cost savings to our clients. We work with our clients to determine the best sourcing model for their needs and bring in additional value of innovative solutions and approaches that are often overlooked by our competitors. In addition to our solid base of in-house consultants, we have immediate access to over 2,000,000 consultants in our internal resume database. Whether you need IT staffing services, or IT consulting services, Microexcel delivers the best talent to meet your needs.

When it comes to project staffing requirements, Microexcel offers a wide range of technologies including:

- ▶ Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP)
- ▶ Cloud-based Solutions
